CHURCH ROBBERS ON TRIAL. DAVID STINE AND WILLIAM MULLER HELD TO ANSWER TO TEN CHARGES OF THEFT.

The examination of David Stine and William Muller, the Queens County church robbers, was continued before Justice I homas Lawrence, at the Town Hall, Flushing. L. I., yesterday. The courtroom was crowded with persons ready to testify against the prisoners, and to identify the property recovered by the officers. District-Attorney Downing conducted the examination. John Gaul, of Flushing, testified that he had a horse and wagon stolen from his premises on the night of July 10, and that the property was found at Stine's place in Newtown. George Caldwell, a member of the New-Newtown. George Caldwell, a member of the Newtown Methodist Episcopal Church, testified that the charch was broken into and robbed June 19. He had identified the goods stolen from the church in a lot found at Stine's house. William Giller described the robbery of his house at Jamaica, on the nigat of July 7. Officers Smith and Hance testified to finding the stolen goods at Stine's house.

Christina Stine, the wife of David Stine, stated that she was married to Stine about one month are Christina Stine, the wife of David Stine, stated that she was married to Stine about one month ago by the Rev. Mr. Wagner. Stine and Muher hired the house at Newtown a week prior to removing there. Multer and her husband took the organ to the house at Newtown. Multer and Stine generally went away in the afternoon or night and brought the property back in a wagon. They never told Mrs. Stine how they got the property. Deputy Sheriff Murphy testified to finding the horse and wagon stolen from Mr. Hendrickson, of Flatiands, under the horse-shed of the Reformed Church at Queons on Friday morning last, when the attempt was made to rob the church.

Mr. Kowenhoven and Mr. Van Mater testified to the robbery of the Reformed Church at Flatiands, and identified the property stolen from the church. Mr. Van Mater also stated that on the same night that the church was robbed his shop was broken open and three sets of wheelrigats' tools were stolen. He identified a portion of his tools found at Stine's. There are now ten complaints against the prisoners and they were examined upon

The prisoners were committed on each charge to await the action of the Grand Jury and immediately upon the adjournment of the court were taken to the Queens County Jail at Long Island City. Mrs. Stine was held as a witness.

SUICIDE AFTER A DEBAUCH.

The body of a man six feet tall and weighing about one hundred and seventy pounds, was found floating in the Sound near Brantford, Conn., on Tuesday. The clothing was not very good, and from the description, particularly in regard to two builet holes, one in each leg, it was at first thought to be the body of "Gns" Walters, the crippled burglar, who escaped from the Queens County Jail, on June 27 with William' Battersby, who was recaptured by Francis Belmont and William Shaw; but this proved to be untrue. On the body were found a bunch of keys with a plate marked "P.

but this proved to be untrue. On the body were found a bunch of keys with a plate marked "P. Donnelly, Boston;" pawn-ticket No. 11,547, from M. Davis, No. 3 Sullivan-st.; 3 cents and a New-York newspaper of July 1.

Upon making inquiry at the pawnbroker's shop in Sullivan-st. yesterday, a Thirdune reporter was told that a man giving his name as P. Donnelly, and his residence as the Cosmopolitan Hotel, had pawned a piece of jewelry. On inquiring at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, the clerk said that a man who registered W. P. Donnelly, Boston, came to the hotel on June 28, and remained until July 1. He had with him a satchel marked "P. D. Boston." The hotel clerk's description of this man corresponds with that of the man found in the Sound. He also said that Donnelly was under the influence of liquor nearly all the time he was there. After Donnelly had been missing since the latter part of June, and asking if he had been there. On finding that he had been in the city the brother-in-law of the missing man, in order to find him it possible. They told the hotel clerk that his name was not W. P. Donnelly, but P. Donnelly, the former name being his brother's. These gentlemen were unable to find any further trace of their missing relative after he left the Cosmopolitan Hotel until his body was found in the Sound. There being no apparent cause to suspect that he was murdered it is supposed that he committed smeide.

EXCESSIVE FEES IN LUDLOW STREET.

EXCESSIVE FEES IN LUDLOW STREET. There was another hearing before Commissioner Curtis yesterday, regarding the charges against Sheriff Reilly. Mr. Larocque objected to the prosecuting counsel appearing upon the papers as "members of the Bar Association," as that organization was not a party to the proceeding. Mr. Curtis allowed the obnoxious phrase to be stricken out. J. B. Miller, a lawyer, testified that he visited the Sheriff's office to see Deputy-Sheriff Beirne, who arrested the defendant in the suit of Wolf against Meyer. The witness complained of the fees charged in excess of $21 25-the legal rate. He was referred to Major Quincy, who offered him $5 in settlement, but the witness refused this and demanded his full claim. Major Quincy, he said, declared that the charge was not excessive and that a decision of the Supreme Court sustained his action. The witness paid no attention to a message he afterward received, telling him that $5 was awaiting him at the Sheriff's office. Police Officer James Garraghty testified that when under arrest in 1877 he was asked a fee of $21 50 for ball bonds. He resisted paying, but the clerk said that it was the ordinary charge, and he finally submitted and handed the money to Major Quincy. Michael Harris, another police officer, testified that under similar circi instances $16 75 was demanded of him for fees. Major Quincy finally accepted $6 75. Mr. Bush wanted to call Depnty-Sheriff Gale, but he said that the officer had evaded him so that he was not able to serve a subposia on him. The exammation will go on this morning.

SUSPENSION OF THE LIFE-SAVING SERVICE. The Executive Committee of the New-York Life-Saving Society met at the Maritime Exchange yesterday to hear the grievances of "Nan the News boy," and his companions, Gilbert Long and Edward Kelly, who composed the life-saving force. In the complaints made by the boys considerable blame was attached to Captain Boyton, who, they alleged, had made promises of assistance which be alleged, had made promises of assistance which he had not fulfilled. Another grievance was that they received only half the money paid by John H. Starin for accompanying their excursions; as the other half went into the fund from which their regular weekly wages were paid, they said they were in reality compelled to earn it a second time. Captain Boyton indignantly denied the charges made against him. H. J. Robinson, chairman of the committee, said that no complaints had ever been made against him. H. J. Robinson, chairman of the committee, said that no complaints had ever been made to the association; the members of the association were all business men who had given up an hour each week from the most valuable part of the day; the half of the money received from Mr. Starin was put into the fund because it was with great difficulty sustained. The resignation of the three members of the corps was accepted. Mr. Robinson said at the close of the meeting that the association would continue its work as before as soon as new men could be employed. The amount now in the treasury is about $200, making with their station and other property about $600. and other property about $600.

SICK CHILDREN OF THE POOR.

Instances of severe suffering among the children of the poor are discovered by the Sick Children's Mission of the Children's Aid Society. Two or three of a very serious nature were made known yesterday at the office of the Mission, No. 709 East Eleventh-st. Among those asking for assistance Eleventh-st. Among those asking for assistance was a woman whose husband is an inmate of an insane asylum, having lost his reason because of mability to obtain employment; three of the children had been ill, two of them still requiring medical attendance and nourishing food. Another instance was that of a family in which the husband is over seventy years of age and unable to do any kind of labor; two of his children, one eight and the other twelve years of age, are sick. The Children's Aid Society, through the agency of its Sick Children's Mission, is engaged in allording relief to the poor sick children of the city, and appeals to the benevolent to sustain it in these efforts.

INQUEST ON A DEAD STABLE-BOY. The inquest in the case of Thomas Lyons, who was found dying in his employer's barn recently, was continued at Stony Brook, L. L., yesterday. Mr. Fanning, a baker residing at Port Jefferson, testified that he saw on the might of June 14 a white and a colored man driving along the road near his place of business about 9 p. m. He be-heved the persons whom he saw in the wagon were Thomas Lyons and John Jones. Alice McGovern stated that she did not visit Shaw's saloon at Port Jefferson June 14 with Reuben Jones. She went to the saloon alone and paid for her cream. Mrs. Shaw Jefferson June 14 with Reuben Jones. She went to the saloon slone and paid for her cream. Mrs. Show testified that Jones and the girl McGovern sat at the same table in the saloon. When they went out the girl paid for her cream and Jones for his. It was a common practice with the colored people each to pay for his or her own ice cream.

dead; and it was believed that he had succumbed to heart disease. An undertaker was then called in, and the usual crane emblem of death was displayed on the bell-pull. The undertaker went away, but returned in a short time and prepared to place the body on ice. Mr. Bausch, bowever, refused to remain inanimate, and as the undertaker and his assistant were about to place him in the box he showed signs of life. Although very weak when he revived, he requested the undertaker to postpone his services.

THE DUKE'S DEPARTURE. SAILING OF THE DUKE OF ARGYLL BY THE STEAM-

SHIP SCYTHIA. The Duke of Argyll and his daughters, Lady Elizabeth Campbell and Lady Mary Campbell, took passage for home yesterday, in the steamship Scythia, the same ship which brought them to this country. On the previous trip home, Lord Walter Campbell, who came over with his father and sisters, was a passenger. During the forenoon the Duke was presented with an honorary membership in the St. Andrew's Society of this city, by a few prominent Scotch citizens, who waited upon him at the Brevoort House. Among the visitors was James Brand, president of the society; William Watson, vicepresident, William Wood, president of the Board of Education, John Mackay, James Baird Gray and A. M. Stewart. A few remarks were made by the president of the society and by the Duke, the presentation taking the form mainly of an informal social RIDDING NEW-ROCHELLE OF A NUISANCE In addition to the nusiance wars being waged in Yonkers and Greenburgh, Westchester County, another has begun in New-Rochelle between the authorities of that village and David Jones, the proprietor of the New-Rochelle Park Brewery and thirteen other breweries, and also of the Clarendon Hotel in this city. Mr. Jones is also a director in the Western Union Telegraph Company, and a member of the Union League Club. Some three years ago Mr. Jones put down an earthernware pipe drain from his brewery, to connect with a small stream known as Burling Brook, running through the corporate limits of the village. It is charged by the village authorities that the matter which is discharged from the brewery into Burling Brook is detrimental to the health of all persons residing near it.

The notice being duly served upon Mr. Jones, and the request not being complied with. President Delancy Kane informed Mr. Jones that the village authorities would remove the drain from the streets. Yesterday moraing sixteen laborers began to work under the supervision of George Lambden, one of the village trustees, and they will probably complete their task sometime to-day. Mr. Jones threatens to pump the waste fluid from the brewery into the street to find its own way into the brook. AN OLD MAN'S MISERABLE END. Heinrich Armriedt, age about sixty, was found dead vesterday in a small room in the rear tenement at No. 139 Forsyth-st. He came to this country from Germany about ten years ago, and made a living by manufacturing and peddling medicines. family in Saxony, where he was a druggist. He lived in a state of squalor and filth. His two small rooms were filled with a collection of rubbish of no value. His only companions were cats, for which he had a great affection. It was his babit to take home all the homeless cats that he found in the streets and to feed and care for them. On Tuesday evening he asked August Schleater, a neighboring barkeeper, for some ice. He said he had been feeling sick for several days, and thought he was going to die. Paul Port, of No. 38 Bleecker-st., called to see Armried yesterday and found that he had died during the night. His half-nude body lay on the floor with a large number of cats hovering about it. There were no evidences of suicide, and it was believed that the old man had died from natural causes. The body was sent to the Morgue, where it will be examined by the Coroner to-day. No papers or other articles of value were found in Armriedt's rooms. family in Saxony, where he was a druggist. He

SECRETARY SHERMAN IN NEW-YORK. Secretary Sherman yesterday spent the day in this city, at night resuming his journey Eastward. During the day he visited the Sub-Treasury and the Custom House. At the former place he received calls from many leading bankers and financiers. The visits were said to be social and friendly. Bankers, who were prominent members of the last Syndicate, were not present, and expressed the opinion that the Secretary's visit had nothing to do with the finances of the Government. For the

The Secretary afterward visited the Custom House, where he remained nearly an hour. He held a conference with the heads of Departments, and received calls from Naval Officer Burt, General Graham, Surveyor of the Port, and others. After conversation with his visitors he left the Custom House. The Secretary was accompanied by his private secretary, General Robinson, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Ohio, Mr. Sturtevant, chief of the Stationery Bureau at Washington, and others. In the evening he took his departure for New-London on his way to Maine.

TAKING VENGEANCE ON A POLICEMAN. Patrolman Sheils, of the Fourteenth Precinct, eard cries for help at Mulberry and Spring-sts., early yesterday morning, and found several ruffians engaged in robbing Sheldon I. Norton, of No. 2 Neilson-place. They had knocked Mr. Norton down and had taken from him his cost and scarf pin, valued at $40, before the offic came up. Patrick Cunningbam, Maurice Sullivan, Edward Murphy and Thomas Hardy, all residents of Spring-st, were arrested. Later, at the Tombs Police Court, Cunningham was held in default of $2,000 bail for trial. The others were discharged, because Mr. Norton failed to identify them as the robbers. Threats of vengeance were made freely by their friends who had witnessed their arrest, and Officer Shiels was informed that the next time he cassed through Spring-st, he nessed their arrest, and Officer Shiels was informed that the next time he passed through Spring-st, he would have cause to be sorry for his interference.

Not heeding these threats, the officer walked through Spring-st, last evening. When he was opposite No. 41, some one on the roof of the building hurled a brick at him. The missile struck his hat and tore away a part of the crown. His forchead was cut slightly, but he was not injured seriously. The officer called for assistance, and searched the building, but the person who had thrown the brick could not be found.

ANTAGONISTIC TELEGRAPH LINES.

In building its lines, the American Union Telegraph Company has met many obstacles that have impeded its progress somewhat. The Western Union Company has applied at Lafayette, Ind., and at St. Louis for injunctious restraining the company from building lines along the Wabash and the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern railroads. At Lafayette, a temporary injunction was issued by the court, and a hearing was set down for July 31; at St. Louis the injunction was refused. It was claimed, in the latter case, by the Western Union Company, that the building of the new line was a violation of the contract made in 1870 between that company and the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railroad. In refusing 1870 between that company and the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Rairroad. In refusing to grant a preliminary injunction the court is said to have questioned the validity of the contract. It is claimed by officers of the American Union Company that these obstructions will cause only shight delay in the completion of its lines. The most persistent opposition is said to have been met in New-Jersey. It was claimed by the opponents of the new company that it had not been incorporated in that State, and certificates to that effect were procured from the office of the Secretary of State at Trenton. It is said that the owners of a short and unemportant line took advantage of the fact to sell their charter to the Western Union Company, claiming that they possessed the only of a short and unemportant line took advantage of the fact to sell their charter to the Western Union Company, claiming that they possessed the only charter that would enable the new company to run its lines through the State before the next session of the Legislature. A few days after the date of the certificates the American Union Company filed its articles of association in the Sceretary of State's office and became under the State 'aw a regularly incorporated company. An examination of the records in the office is said to have disciosed the remarkable fact that the Western Union Company itself had no incorporation in the State of New-Jersey. It is operated under an old charter to the American Felegraph Company, which was absorbed in 1866 by the Western Union Company. Since that time the company has ceased to exist, and the subsequent extensions by the Western Union Company have been made in its own name. It is claimed by offi ers of the new company that in these extensions the Western Union Company has not complied with the State laws.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

Henry Harley, who was at one time one of the largest oil operators in Pennsylvania, has had a receiver appointed for his affairs, Charles H. Truax, on the application of James W. Bell, one of his creditors who hotels a claim for clothes amounting to $723. Mr. Harley obtained during the life of James Fisk, jr., valuable Eric contracts for loading all the oil at their depots in the oil regions. RUFFIANISM AT ROCKAWAY BEACH. On Tuesday the steamer Peter Crary carried to Rockaway Beach, by way of Carnarsic, an excursion party from Brooklyn. They landed at one of the upper piers, and were accompanied it is said by a member of the Brooklyn Police. As the afternoon advanced many of the party who had been drinking freely thoughout the day became quarreisome; and the police at the upper end of the Beach anticipating trouble increased their numbers by detachments from the force at the Seaside Landing. Early in the evening the crowd became noisy and a general fight soon followed. It is said that when the officers attempted to restore order they were compelled to face pistols. With commendable the officers attempted to restore order they were compelled to face pistols. A NEW LINE TO THE WEST.

PROPOSED COMPLETION OF THE ROUTE TO LOUIS-VILLE AND THE WEST BY WAY OF THE CHESA PEAKE AND OHIO ROAD.

A project is on foot for the completion of what is known as the Chesapeake and Ohlo route from the Atlantic seaboard to the Western country by way of Louisville. Two sections of this line have been built several years, the last construction work having been done in 1873, when the main road was carried over the Alleghanys to its present Western terminus, at Huntington on the Onio River, near the extreme western corner of West Virginia. From this point westward there is a gap until Mt. Sterling, Ky., ts reached-a distance of about ninety-five miles, eighty-eight and one-half of which are the uncompleted portion of the Elizabethtown, Lexington and Big Sandy River Railroad, which onnects at Lexington with the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington Railroad for Louisville. Besides this gap of about nin-ty-five miles, which includes about even miles of the Ohio and Chesapeake yet uncompleted, there is one other piece of road to be built be fore tidewater can be reached in the East. At present the Chesapeake and Ohio Road has its Eastern terminus at R.chmoud, the entire distance from Huntington to Riesmond being 423 miles. It is proposed to extend the road from Richmond castward to the most available point on the deep waters of the Chesapeake Bay. Several such points may be had at distances varying rom firty to seventy-five miles through a level tide water country. At all these points vessels of the largest onnage can arrive, load and depart with great facility The plan is to build the Elizabethtown, Lexington and Hig Sandy extension first, and a contract has already been made by which it is to be done, payment being made in securities of that company on terms that have been agreed upon. From a circular issued by the Chesa-NOT DEAD BY ANY MEANS.

$500,000 should be expended upon the road before any of the bonds of the company should be issued. The parties contracting to build the road are prepared to make the required expenditure in advance of the issue of the bonds, and to unrish the additional means necessary for its completion ready for the running of trains, provided the $1,200,000 of bonds are subscribed for, and upon certain other conditions which will be complied with. This extension can be built, it is believed, within a year. The building of the Eastern extension will follow afterward. It is expected and believed that the greater part of the bonds will be taken up by the holders of the securities of the Chesapeake and Ohio Raiiway Company.

This route, in point of distance from Louisville to the This route, in point of distance from Louisville to the scabbard, gives an advantage over the Baltimore and Oldo route of 53 m les; over the Pennsylvania of 135; over the Erie of 345, and over the New-York Central of 373. Between Louisville and Washington nearly the same advantage in distance exists. The terminas on the Chesapeake will be shorar the main ocean as the terminas of any road at New-York; 100 miles nearer than at Philadelphia, and 160 miles nearer than at Baltimore

A LAST APPEAL.

THE MURDERERS OF OFFICER SMITH. MENNIE R. SMITH AND COVERT D. BENNETT APPLY FOR A NEW TRIAL-ARGUMENTS BEFORE THE COURT OF APPEALS-MEETING OF THE COURT

OF PARDONS.

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE. TRENTON, N. J., July 16 .- The city apparently shunders in the Summer sun to-day, and languidly there walk through its quaint streets a rew forlornbooking men and women. It is the warmest day of the year, 101° in the shade, and all who can do so remain within doors. In a retired street, upon the bank of the Delaware River, stands the State Capitol, surrounded by long green grass, and empowered in trees. It looks deserted; but throughout the day, in one of its stathest rooms, the highest court of the State has been listening to an appeal for life from two wretened human beings, sentenced to be hung next week.

Jenuic R. Smith and Covert D. Bennett, convicted of the murder of Richard H. Smith, recently applied for a new trial on the ground of errors of law at the time of their trial. Judge Knapp, of the Supreme Court, before whom the trial was conducted. also listene i to the application for another trial. He declined to grant it. An appeal from the decision was at once made to the Court of Errors and Appeals. This sourt neid a special session to-day to listen to peal. It is an imposing body, being composed of sixteen members, all fine looking men, It is also peculiarly consultated. New-Jersey many years ago conceived the idea that equitable judgment would be rendered by the court of last resort, if men not educated as lawyers were intermixed with the lawyers who were invariably made judges. Accordingly it was provided that there should be six "lay" judges, who should not be lawyers. The "lay judges" at present are: Caleo S. Greene, of Trenton; Amzi Dodd, of Newark; Francis G. Laturop, Receiver of the Central Railroad or New-Jersey: Dr. Samuel Lilly, of Lambertville; John Clemenis, of Camden, and Samuel L. B. Waies, of Cape May County. The lawyer element Is represented by Chancellor Runyon, Chief-Justice Beasley, and Justices Dalrympie, Depue, Dixon, Knapp, Reed, Scudder, Vansyckel and Woodbull. All the members of the Court were present except Judge Knapp, wh was intentionally absent in consequence of his having reviewed the case in the lower court. For three hours the morning and three hours in the afternoon the judges patiently listened to the argument of counsel. The heat was so intense that several of the judges had to seek the windows for cooler air, and those who remained or the bench plainly suffered greatly, as was evident by their pale faces and a frantic waving of palm leaf Attorney-General Stockton appeared for the State, and Gibert Collins, James Fiemming, ex-Judge Hoffman and Charie- H. Winfield for the prisoners. At the opening of the argument a liberal spirit was manifested by the Court; on motion of Calef Justice Beasley the counsel being allowed all the time they thought needful for an argument in the case. The Judges had also shown in another way that they intended to make a thorough exammation of the case; several of them having read in advance the 600 pages of testimony taken at the trial The proceedings opened with a statement from Attorney-General Stockton, that he should oppose the reception of any of the exceptions cited by the counel for the defence in their application for a new trial. -el for the defence in their application for a new trial. The next two hours were consumed in the reading by ex-senator Winfield of Judge Knapp's decision on the application for a new irial, Judge Knapp's charge to the Jury, the remarkable letter of Bennett to Mrs. Smith which secured his conviction, and the argument of the counsel of Mrs. Smith and Bennett for a new Irial. Ex-Senator Winfield has a good voice, which he manages with all the skill of an elocutionist. He read also with great intelligence, so that all the points which the defence wished to make from the decuments named were put before the Judge in a strongs manner.

documents named were put before the Judge in a strongs manner.

The document of greatest interest to the Judges and to the spectators was the argument for a new trial. The points made in this document were: That there nad been no lawful irrai; that their case had been put in jeoperdy by the fact that the first jury was discharged (owing to the insanity of one of its members,) without proper notice to the defendant's counsel; that it was lilegal to receive evidence regarding the ill-will felt by Mrs. Smith toward her hasband seven years previous to his murder; that it was improper to admit the letter written by Hennett to Mrs. Smith as evidence against Mrs. Smith; that the charge of Judge Knapp to the jury did not, in letter or in spirit, conform to certain requests made by them; that the circumstantial evidence on which the prisoners were convicted was not good; it at theories of Judge Knapp about the marder which were not substantiated by evidence influence d the jury; that Mrs. Smith was not necessarily

All these points were acroud at length which space was silven to an explanation of Esuncit's letter to Mrs. Smith in which he said, "I am ready at any moment, if anything convicts you, to step forward and exonerate you from everything; so be true to me even if it causes my death." The defence argued that this was not a confession of guilt, that the remainder of the letter was melely a love letter, and that there was no lididen reference to the murder, as claimed by the State. The defence cited the Hull murder case in New-York as an instance of the danger of accusing a man on purely circumstantial evidence, as the police plainly intended to do in that case after deeding that the murder must have been committed in the house. Afterney-General Stockton also submitted a written reply, but frequently branched of from it with remarks not in the printed document. He showed a thorough acquaintance with the case, and carnestly defended Judge Knapp from the implied charge that the trial had been illegally conducted. At times he cased his argument respecting the law points and diverged unto the emotional features of the case. Here his manner was very impressive and foreible. He urged at great length that Judge Knapp from the major decking the fact here is a summer of the case and the right to discharge time that the case, and carnestly defended Judge Knapp from the major decking the fact here is that evidence of the same of the defendants that evidence for the business of the case. FIGHTING INTEMPERANCE IN NEWARK.

WATCHING THE FXCISE COMMISSIONERS-OPPOSING LIQUOR DEALERS WHO HAVE SOLD ON SUNDAY. Notwithstanding the oppressive heat, the Comion Council chamber at Newark was filled yesterday afternoon by residents, saloon-keepers, officers and elergymen, to observe the action of the Commissioners of Excise, who held a public meeting and had invited residents to show cause why certain licenses which had been objected to should not be granted, Samuel Kalish, counsel for the liquor dealers, cautioned the Board that it could not constitute uself a judicial tribunal. By refusing a license it inflicted punishment outside of that which was provided by the law of the State. The Board could not, he said, under the law revoke a license, and ought not to refuse one. It was not immoral to sell on Sunday, the clergy of the city to the contrary notwithstanding, and unless it was, no punishment could be inflicted by any Court. Commissioner Foster, at this point, stated that the Board was not a judicial tribunal, and therefore did not desire to any legal argument. If any law was needed, he said, the Board could obtain the advice from the City Counset.

Several of the clergy and members of the Law and Order Association also objected. The speaker shortly afterward concluded, urging that no additional punishment be inflicted upon those saloon-keepers who had had the law visited upon them by keepers who had had the law visited upon them by the upper courts.

Before the real business of the meeting, the hearing of remoustrances, was begun, the Rev. J. Howard Smith presented a petition signed by a thousand residents of Newark, praying that the number of drinking places be curtailed by refusing licenses to keepers of groceries and other places. A memorial was next presented which was signed by a number of German ministers, directing the attention of the Commissioners to the fact that there exist in the city disorderly houses, which are not beer salcons, and which should receive the attention of the Board before the lesser evil of Sanday selling. The memorial as well as the petition was placed on file. A number of licenses were then either granted, rejected or laid over, as seemed best in the judgment of the Commissioners. The audience was very demonstrative, especially that part in sympathy with Sunday selling. A threat by Commissioner Foster to call in the Chief of Police if order were not maintained, quelled any disturbance. were not maintained, quelled any disturbance.
